DETAILED ACTION

Election/Restrictions

Restriction to one of the following inventions is required under 35 U.S.C. 121:

- I. Claims 53-55, 58-63 and 67-70, drawn to an array of eukaryotic cells i.e., plant cells.
- II. Claims 53 and 56, drawn to an array of eukaryotic cells i.e., insect cells.
- III. Claims 53 and 57, drawn to an array of eukaryotic cells i.e., mammalian cells
- IV. Claims 72-74 and 78-86 drawn to a library of eukaryotic cells i.e., plant cells.
- V. Claims 72 and 75 drawn to an array of eukaryotic cells wherein the cells are insect cells. (Note independent claim 72 from which claim 75 depend recites a library, not an array).
- VI. Claims 72 and 76-77, drawn to an array of eukaryotic cells. (See note above).

The inventions are distinct, each from the other because of the following reasons:

Inventions I, II and III are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are drawn to different array of eukaryotic cells such as plant, insect and mammalian. Thus, the components that make up each cell the array are different compounds having possibly different effects and/or functions.

Inventions IV, V, and VI are unrelated. Inventions are unrelated if it can be shown that they are not disclosed as capable of use together and they have different modes of operation, different functions, or different effects (MPEP § 806.04, MPEP § 808.01). In the instant case the different inventions are drawn to different libraries of plant, insect and mammals, which do not require to be in an array format.

Inventions I and IV are related as mutually exclusive species in an intermediate-final product relationship. Distinctness is proven for claims in this relationship if the intermediate product is useful to make other than the final product, and the species are patentably distinct (MPEP § 806.05(j)). In the instant case, the intermediate product (library) is deemed to be useful to screen for an individual member of the library for discovery of e.g., drugs or other compounds and the inventions are deemed patentably distinct because there is nothing of record to show them to be obvious variants.

Restriction for examination purposes as indicated is proper because all these inventions listed in this action are independent or distinct for the reasons given above and there would be a serious search and examination burden if restriction were not required because one or more of the following reasons apply:

- (a) the inventions have acquired a separate status in the art due to their recognized divergent subject matter;
- (b) the inventions require a different field of search (for example, searching different classes/subclasses or electronic resources, or employing different search queries);
- (c) the prior art applicable to one invention would not likely be applicable to another invention;
- (d) the inventions are likely to raise different non-prior art issues under 35 U.S.C. 101 and/or 35 U.S.C. 112, first paragraph.

Applicant is advised that the reply to this requirement to be complete must include (i) an election of a invention to be examined even though the requirement may be traversed (37 CFR 1.143) and (ii) identification of the claims encompassing the elected invention.

The election of an invention may be made with or without traverse. To reserve a right to petition, the election must be made with traverse. If the reply does not distinctly and specifically point out supposed errors in the restriction requirement, the election shall be treated as an election without traverse. Traversal must be presented at the time of election in order to be considered timely. Failure to timely traverse the requirement will result in the loss of right to petition under 37 CFR 1.144. If claims are added after the election, applicant must indicate which of these claims are readable on the elected invention.

Should applicant traverse on the ground that the inventions are not patentably distinct, applicant should submit evidence or identify such evidence now of record showing the inventions to be obvious variants or clearly admit on the record that this is the case. In either instance, if the examiner finds one of the inventions unpatentable over the prior art, the evidence or admission may be used in a rejection under 35 U.S.C. 103(a) of the other invention.
